Wave of Killings Continues Throughout Northern Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland — While trying to dismantle a peace initiative, hundreds of Catholics were heading for the Irish Republican border and scores of families in the capital were leaving their homes to seek refuge in Belfast's strongly guarded "no-go" strongholds.

Three of the victims died in at least three guerrilla gun-street gun battles between British army troops and members of the Irish Republican Army seeking to drive the British out of this province. The fourth victim was a British bomb disposal man who lost his life prospect for his four-month-old

Easing Ordered On Wage Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge, in the first successful court challenge of President Nixon's economic stabilization program, has ordered a relaxation of wage controls that could benefit 14 million workers.

U.S. District Judge William B. Jones ruled Friday that the Cost of Living Council (COLC) was "in excess of federal authority" when it limited exemptions from wage controls to persons earning less than $1.90 an hour.

The ruling meant the council could no longer use $1.90 as the figure beyond which wage raises have been limited to 5.5 per cent.

IRA Cease Fire After a week of violence following the collapse of the Irish Republican Army's 13-day cease-fire last Sunday, many persons, both Catholic and Protestant, feared the violence would hit a new peak this weekend.

The soldier was killed by a sniper shortly after midnight as an army patrol scouted Lenadon Avenue, already the scene of bitter confrontations this week.

A. Ligoniel, on the outskirts of Belfast, four gunmen attacked a Royal Marine position. An army marksman killed one of the attackers as the group fled.

Troops believed that another man had also been hit after finding a trail of blood leading away from the area.

The command said that South Vietnamese paratroopers searching one area eight miles south of Quang Tri City, where the B52s had hit, found 60 destroyed North Vietnamese massive strikes on two sides of the city. The B52s also destroyed two 37mm anti-aircraft guns, one 85mm gun and two trucks in the same target area, the command said.

Two miles to the northeast of Quang Tri City, South Vietnamese marines probing another area hit by B52 bombers found six graves that contained the bodies of 48 North Vietnamese.

They formed a natural barrier on that flank and it was being watched closely for infiltration by small groups that might try to swim across during the night.

Hanoi Ready for Secret Sessions

PARIS (AP) — Hanoi Politburo member Le Duc Tho returned to Paris today and said he is prepared to hold new secret talks with Dr. Henry Kissinger if Kissinger has "something new" to discuss.

Tho, returning from Hanoi by way of Peking and Moscow after an absence of about two months, spoke briefly with newsmen at Le Bourget Airport.

Tho has held a series of private talks with Kissinger in the past. He was asked if he is ready to meet with President Nixon's national security advisor again.

He replied: "If Mr. Kissinger has something new to say and shows an interest in seeing me, I am ready to see him to discuss a correct solution to the Vietnam problem."

Told to Wait

Pressed by newsmen as to whether there have been any developments on the Vietnam question, Tho told them to "wait several days."

Tho said he had no other statements to make beyond what was said earlier this week by Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the peace talks. Thuy has reiterated that the Communist seven-point plan is the "correct basis" for settlement of the conflict. The plan calls for the United States to announce a total troop withdrawal date, the immediate resignation of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu and the setting up of a coalition government in Saigon.

The semipublic plenary sessions of the Vietnam peace talks resumed Thursday after a 10-week break and will continue next Thursday. The Communists have always insisted that the plenary sessions must go on before any secret talks can be held. Tho and Kissinger met for the last time May 2 in Paris, with no apparent results.

Heavy Death Toll Claimed On U.S. Bombing Mission

By GEORGE ESPER Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — U.S. B52 bombers killed nearly 300 North Vietnamese troops and destroyed their equipment in two massive strikes on two sides of the city. Five Stabbed by Assailant on Bus

TACOMA, Wash. (AP) — A The Greyhound bus was scheduled to terminate its trip in Tacoma after a Tacoma stop-over here Friday night was listed in critical condition today after being shot by a bus driver.

The five all were listed in satisfactory condition with stab wounds they suffered when the assailant suddenly attacked them on and off the bus, police said Friday night from Miami Beach.

He moved up and down the aisle during the flight, obvious resident who had boarded the bus in a good mood. "It was a bus at Portland, Ore., with me, crazy week," he told most of the other passengers.

The driver of another Greyhound bus at the terminal, Harley Virgil Powell, 37, of Tacoma, went into the bus and tried to hold back the assailant, but also fell from stab wounds, Vejvoda said. The driver of the bus on which the attacks occurred was not present at the time, police said.

Vejvoda said the assailant was shot when he turned to leave the bus and was met at the exit by gunfire from another bus driver. That driver, who was at the terminal after driving a metropolitan bus from Seattle to Tacoma, had carried a pistol in his travel bag and rushed to the scene, Vejvoda said.

The driver of the bus which carried the group from Portland said there had been no incidents during the trip which might have precipitated the attacks.

"There was nothing we know of that brought this on," Vejvoda said.

Chess Match Won't be Filmed

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — Organizers of the world chess championship have made a new concession to Bobby Fischer, but the competition still appears to be on the brink of collapse.

Gudmundur Thorarinsson, president of the Icelandic Chess Federation, said late Friday the hidden film cameras would be removed from the Reykjavik sports hall as demanded by the U.S. challenger.

But Thorarinsson also said the ruling would stand that Fischer forfeited Thursday's second game to Russian defender Boris Spassky by refusing to appear because of the cameras.

The third game is scheduled for Sunday afternoon. Fischer announced he would play only if the cameras were removed and if the forfeit were erased and the Sunday game was considered the loss.

With the second of Tuesday's opener, Fischer trails 0-2 in the 24-game competition. Spassky needs 10 more points to retain his world title. Fischer 12½ to take it. A win counts one point, a draw half a point.

A four-member international committee presiding over the championship voted 3 to 1 Friday to reject Fischer's appeal of the referee's decision that the American had forfeited the second match.

Another Concession Made to Bobby Fischer

Fischer's attitude complicated anew the financial arrangements for the competition and threatened to cost him much of the money he had piled from the organizers in drawn-out negotiations preceding the match.

Thorarinsson said the organizers do not intend to pay the loser's share of the purse if Fischer's nonappearance Thursday causes his disqualification.

Loser's Share The loser has been scheduled to get $46,875 from the chess federation, $45,000 from a $120,000 purse offered by London investment banker James Slater

Ken Berry Show Called Pleasant

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 Channels 11-9 — The Ken Berry Show is a pleasant way to spend a summer evening. While the show has a few moments that don't work, it has a lot of good one plus some sensational use of chroma-key effects which combine animation and live-action. For instance, watch a fine dance number with Ken and the chorus dancing "Flying Down to Rio" on the wings of an animated airplane. Also, in the week's Rerun Movies, a regular feature, watch the "Gobs on Parade" walk up an animated gangplank and into an animated battleship. Cameo guests keep showing up here, including Don Knotts, Monty Hall, Cass Elliott, Dr. Joyce Brothers and Patty Duke and John Astin, who are a team off-screen as well. The New Seekers offer a musical interlude, again with some imaginative photography. (R)

4-6 Channels 11-9 — Chris Schenkel and Jim McKay will report via satellite the play on 11 holes (1-4, 12-18) of the British Open from Muirfield Golf Links in Gullane, East Lothian, Scotland. Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton and Arnold Palmer are some of the golfers expected to compete for the more than $75,000 stakes.

7-8 Channels 5 — With Emergency! repairing itself over the summer (there weren't enough original episodes to carry through repeat season), NBC Comedy Theater limps in to repeat repeats of repeats which were originally telecast years ago on the old Bob Hope Chrysler Theater. The first is "Wake Up, Darling," with Barry Nelson, Janet Blair and Roddy McDowall and its age shows. (R)

7-8 Channels 2-7 — The Mary Tyler Moore Show repeats an episode from 1970 in which Mary's income tax is being audited. The tax man (Paul Sand) finds auditing Mary's return a great experience, and he pours over matters like deductions for ice cream, lipsticks and grandmothers. He also takes her out on dates. (R)

8-8:30 Channels 2-7 — The New Dick Van Dyke Show has Dick winning an "Andy" and the award is being presented at an exclusive Los Angeles club. The problem: the club bars blacks, Jews and Mexican-Americans, although it liberally allows them to play there as guests of members. Dick is faced with compromising his principles if he accepts the award. (R)

8-10 Channels 5 — World Premiere: Evil Roy Slade is a wild and wonderful slapstick comedy. John Astin is Evil Roy (evil because he is unloved, having been rejected by both Indians and wolves as an infant), but he falls under the influence of the nicest girl in the west, Pamela Austin. There's a fine cast of comics here: Dick Shawn, Edie Adams, Dom DeLuise, Milton Berle, Mickey Rooney, Henry Gibson and Pat Morita. (R) and Sunday — At Steeplechase, new tent facility at Waukesha.

Theatre-on-the-Bay — Time of the Cuckoo. Arthur Laurent, 8:15 p.m. University campus theater at Marinette. Plays through Monday and July 22, 23 and 24.

Learns English Dialect 'Black Comedy' Cast

Attie's Second Show Opens Tonight In Lawrence Music-Drama Center

Although "the rain in Spain" may not be part of the routine, English dialect lessons are part of the rehearsal procedure for the cast of "Black Comedy." Attie Theatre's current second show, which opens tonight at Lawrence Music-Drama Center.

Playwright Peter Shaffer is English, and the Broadway cast, featuring performers such as Lynn Redgrave, also was imported.

Attie Director Joe Hopfensberger feels the dialect is in keeping with the wit and tone of "Black Comedy," so he worked hard with his cast on this aspect of their performance.

Leading role of Brindley Miller, the young sculptor, is filled by Dean Markwardt, University of Wisconsin — La Crosse graduate who is media director at Neenah High School. The father of two children, Markwardt has appeared in several productions with Riverside Players. He has played in Attie productions of "Desk Set," "Ten Little Indians," "A Thousand Clowns," and "Slow Dance on the Killing Ground."

Paul Buboltz plays neighborly lights. He also becomes embroiled in the action. This role is handled by Attie veteran Curtis Brown (because of his German accent, he claims "I'm type cast, as usual"). Technical editor and associate professor at the Institute of Paper Chemistry, Curtis has had "about 19 1/2 parts" in Attie productions since 1957. His most recent was as Joey in last season's "Watch the Birdie!"

Newcomer to Attie is Tom LaFontaine. He handles the role of George Bamberger, millionaire art dealer who comes to evaluate Brindley's work. LaFontaine is a UW-Oshkosh senior, majoring in social science in secondary education. He plans to go to a career in teaching.

His past theatrical work has been in Oshkosh, where he appeared in the Junior Theatre production of "How to Succeed in Business Without Really Trying."

Brindley's somewhat featherheaded fiancée is portrayed by Lawrence University junior Judy Haus. She is familiar to Attie audience as her role as librarian Marian in "The Music Man." Helen in "Watch the Birdie!" and Helene in "Sweet Charity." Judy also has been active in other area theaters playing in "Fiddler on the Roof," "Most Happy Fella," "The Student Prince," and "The Sound of Music."

The "other woman" is played by Barbara Malinauskas, Grinnell College graduate appearing in her first Attie production. Wife of Mark Malinauskas, Attie's associate director, Mrs. Malinauskas has been active in performance nights.

community groups in Oregon, Michigan, South Dakota and California. She majored in theater in college.

Last of the trio of women in "Black Comedy" is Miss Fumival, a rather timid neighbor of Brindley. She joins the "fun" when the lights go out and proceeds to lose many of her inhibitions with a bottle from Brindley's bar. Joan Hoffmann plays Miss Fumival. Mrs. Hoffmann is a well-known Valley actress and an Attie veteran.

She attended Mount Mary College in Milwaukee and Lawrence University. She is known throughout the state for her dramatic readings.

A sometimes forgotten behind-the-scenes man is the assistant director — stage manager. For "Black Comedy," Joe Hopfensberger chose Peter Volmer, father of three who has appeared in many Attie productions including "Tell it to Angela," "Twentieth Century," and "Time of Your Life."

"Black Comedy" play through Friday, July 28. Curtain times are 8:15 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday and an earlier 7:15 p.m. Sundays. Hospitalization a Must For Person With TB

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am writing about tuberculosis. They tell me it isn't contagious. I have always been told that it was and that it is also hereditary. When people have TB, they should not be with others at home to spread the germs, right?

Emphysema can be controlled. To learn how to live with this serious lung disease, write to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent, requesting a copy of the booklet, "How to Control Emphysema," enclosing a long, self-addressed (use Zip code), stamped envelope and 20 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Copyright, 1972

Thosteson
Don't people have hemorrhage from the mouth when they have it really bad? — Mrs. B.J.

Who's "they"? Certainly TB is contagious. It is passed from person to person, carried by germs — the tubercle bacillus.

No, TB isn't hereditary, but if, for example, a woman with TB had a baby, the baby would be very likely to contract the disease from the mother.

Close contact with a person who has active TB is the way the disease spreads, primarily from the germs being scattered by coughs, sneezes, kissing or other contact. The big problem in controlling TB is that a person may have it for quite some time before knowing it, and in that time can spread the disease to others.

If only TB showed up quickly, like scarlet fever, measles, flu or whatever, we would have much more success in stamping out the disease.

When a case is discovered, then the patient should not stay at home and risk giving the disease to those around him. With modern drugs, hospitalization is much shorter than it used to be. When the disease is brought under control and the patient no longer has the germs in his sputum, and hence won't be spraying TB germs with every sneeze and cough, it is safe to let him go home again. But he should be tested periodically to be sure the disease hasn't become active again.

Yes, in advanced TB there can be bleeding from the lungs (the patient coughs up blood), but that usually means the case is quite advanced and should have been detected sooner.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I have heard that mineral oil should not be used, that it dissolves vitamin intake. Is this true?

As I have a weight and constipation problem, I have found that making mayonnaise with mineral oil works wonders for me, as it is non-fattening, makes salads more appetizing and corrects constipation. — Mrs. S.E.B.

No, you needn't stop the dressing. Mineral oil, in larger amounts than you get in your mayonnaise, can decrease the absorption of vitamin A — but not all vitamins B and C, for example, are soluble in water, but not affected by oils.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: What is a "calcified aorta," what does it mean and what are the dangers, if any? — A.H.F.

Part of the process of hardening of the arteries involves laying down calcium in the walls of the arteries. When enough calcium has been deposited, it may be seen by X-ray.

The aorta, of course, is the biggest of the arteries, the main one leading from the heart. But other arteries can get big and accumulate calcium. This can be noticeable, for example, in the arteries serving the legs.

There is no particular danger from such calcification, since it does not obstruct the flow of blood. But since it is an indication of hardening of the arteries, it is wise to see that your blood pressure stays within normal limits.

Note: Mrs. D.A.P. M. did not become addicted to B-12 injections. B-12 is a vitamin and not a drug.

Police and Fire

KAUKAUNA — Clayton B. Burreich, 231 Taylor St., reported to police that a service station he owns was broken into, the cash register forced and an undetermined amount of money stolen Wednesday night or early Thursday.

Also missing were boxes of cigars and small radio batteries. Police found the rear door window broken and the door forced open. Blood was found on the cash register.

THE ACES ON BRIDGE

There are many ways to play a trump suit. Sometimes the routine way is best; other times a declarer must be more resourceful.

Today's hand is an example of a most novel way to play the trump suit. It was played by Ace Bobby Goldman to help win a recent Swiss Teams Championship. Goldman was partnered by fellow Aces Jim Jacoby and Bobby Wolff, and a queen of ladies, Mrs. A. W. Noland of Lake Charles, La.

Peterson Says He'll Challenge Bleicher's Seat

Name Madison Man To Democratic National Committee

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Wisconsin's Democratic national committeeman, Donald Peterson of Eau Claire, plans to challenge the election of Michael Bleicher of Madison to serve on the committee.

Bleicher, who unsuccessfully challenged Peterson for the committeeman's job at the state convention last month, was elected to the panel Friday by the party's national convention.

Peterson said he would challenge Bleicher's election, charging there was not a quorum at the caucus which chose him. The co-chairman of the Wisconsin delegation, Mrs. Jurgen Herbst of Madison, ruled that there was a quorum.

Wisconsin is entitled to five seats on the national committee under a compromise charter adopted at the convention. Four of the seats go automatically to Peterson, national committeewoman Mary Lou Burg of West Bend, state chairman and state organizational director Mrs. Marge Pattison of Madison.

Bleicher, a convention delegate, was one of the key workers in the Wisconsin primary for South Dakota Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

Peterson, who headed the Wisconsin delegation to the 1968 convention, was a nonvoting delegate this year.

Board Sustains Veto of Its Own Approval Right

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The state Board on Government Operations, meeting Thursday, failed to override Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's veto of a proposal that would have required board approval of community development grants.

Lucey had said the board was exceeding its legal authority and was in conflict with sound policy in taking the position. Five votes were needed to override the veto, but the vote was only 3-2.

The community development grants, made by the Department of Local Affairs and Development, have drawn criticism from board members, door forced open. Blood was found on the cash register.

Deaths Elsewhere

Adolph Sachs, 84, Rhinelander, formerly of Seymour.
Mrs. Ruth Wohld Ake, 30, Ft. Rucker, Ala., formerly of Neenah.
Arthur J. Hintz, 80, Fond du Lac, formerly of Appleton.

West led the heart four and dummy's king was captured by East's ace. The heart three was returned and declarer's ten was covered by West's jack and ruffed in dummy.

Declarer led a club to his queen to lead a spade to dummy's nine. He did not fear a singleton club with West, since he felt that West may have led a club initially had he had a singleton. East won the spade nine with the queen and continued hearts, declarer winning the queen.

A normal 3-2 trump distribution would make things easy, but when declarer led the second round of spades, West's discard made things very sticky. He could not afford to play the ace, since this would give East control of the trump suit and enable him to defeat the hand.

Therefore, declarer allowed East to win dummy's ten. East was now helpless. If he returned a trump or a minor suit, trumps could be drawn and the hand claimed.

East did his best and led a fourth round of hearts. Declarer discarded his club and ruffed in dummy with the spade ace.

Declarer was now left with the J-6 of trumps over East's 7-5. Dummy's good clubs were played and East was trapped. If he ruffed, declarer would overruff, draw the remaining trump and reach dummy with a diamond. If East refused to ruff, declarer could also continue to discard and take the last two tricks with his J-6 of trumps.

A remarkable way to play trumps!

Police and Fire

KAUKAUNA — James Bethke, 12, of 1510 Green Bay Rd., suffered a bruised arm and leg after being struck by a car driven by Terrance Van Eperen, 18, route 2, Kaukauna, about 11:50 p.m. Wednesday.

Bethke was crossing the street. Van Eperen stopped to see if the youth had been hurt, and when the youth said no, continued on his way. The incident was reported to police after Bethke talked to his father.

This semi-annual report covering the first six months of 1972 makes us feel that our efforts to provide a safe and reasonably profitable place for the savings of many people—now more than 13,000, and to make their money available for local purchase and construction activity—largely in the residential field, haven't been without success. We have again moved ahead with good old-fashioned conservatism but with flexibility and a desire to do more for the community.

In this first 6 months of 1972 it has been possible to pay $1,120,000.00 in cash or credits to our customers. It has also been possible to invest $5 million in land and buildings in our own area. Interest rates for borrowers are lower than they were several years ago and seem to have "bottomed out". It would almost appear as though now is a good time to invest in real estate—home-type properties especially. Money for loans has not always been as available as it is now.

Twin City Savings reserves—a measure of soundness, now have passed the $3.5 million mark. This is more than 50 % greater than required by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, of which Twin City Savings has been a member since 1948. Net savings increase for the 6 months period has also set a new record for the firm. This is a gratifying endorsement of the virtues of thrift on the part of area savers and investors.

Our Officers, Directors, and Employees appreciate living and working in this community and are happy to assist in the financial growth of this area. We invite you to visit us at either our Menasha or Neenah office. Let us explain our savings and investment plans to you—or discuss the best way to finance a home, other real estate, a mobile home, a lot purchase, improvements to your present home, or for practically any purpose.

Women 'Equalized' in New Lutheran Marriage Ritual

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
NEW YORK AP: — Parts of the traditional marriage ritual terming the husband "head of the wife" and directing her to be submissive to him no longer are required in a new Lutheran marriage service.
Nor does the bride's father "give her away," and she lacks the independence of the groom. The custom derived from ancient times when daughters were regarded as possessions and were turned over to the groom for a price.
"We feel that they should be regarded as equal partners in the marriage," says the Rev. Dr. Eugene L. Brand, head of an inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship which drew up the new service.
It omits the usual bridal promises to "honor" and "obey" the husband. Nor does the minister pronounce them man and wife as is customary. Instead, they themselves declare that compact.
"Faithfulness."
In principle, this always has been the case, with the minister being only the officiating witness to it, even though he formally pronounced them wed. Basically, however, it is their sessions and were turned over to the groom for a price.
"We feel that they should be regarded as equal partners in the marriage," says the Rev. Dr. Eugene L. Brand, head of an inter-Lutheran Commission on Worship which drew up the new service.
Matching the procedure with the principle the key part of the new service reads:
Ministers "If it is your intention to share with each other your laughter and tears and all ward, to join with you and share all that is to come and with the help of God, I promise to be faithful to you as he gives us life together."

"Before God"

The minister: "(Name and name), by their promises before God, and in the presence of this congregation, have made themselves husband and wife. Blessed be the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit, now and forever."

The new ritual, published June 14 and already authorized for trial use in the 3,844 parishes of the Lutheran Church in America, allows several optional phrases. With limits, it also permits the couple to write their own vows.

This leeway is allowed only so long as they pledge a "complete sharing" of life, which is the essential of marriage, Brand said. He noted many couples nowadays prefer their own distinctively phrased services.

The new service eliminates the customary prayer for offspring.

"Second-Class"

"We wanted to make clear that marriage concerns two people whether or not it results in children and that not having them does not make it a second-class marriage," Brand said.

While the father no longer "gives away" the bride, parents of both bride and groom may add a blessing, saying, "May you dwell in God's presence forever. May true and constant love preserve you."

In getting away from implications that women are "subordinate" to men, the uses of any of several optional scripture readings are allowed rather than those formerly specified.

One of them, Paul's letter in Ephesians 5:22, says, "Wives, be subject to your husbands for the husband is the head of the wife as Christ is head of the Church." Another, 1st Peter 3, refers to women as the "weaker vessel."

Alternatives

The new service eliminates use of Peter, and while Paul's passage still may be used if chosen, several alternatives are allowed with no references.

Lutheran District Chief to Attend Simon Ordination

The Rev. Dr. Lloyd Goetz, president of the North Wisconsin District of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod, will participate in ordination services for ministerial candidate Henry A. Simon at 7 p.m. Sunday at Faith Lutheran Church, 1900 N. Union St.

Goetz also will deliver the sermon at Faith's regular services Sunday morning and Monday evening.

The ordinand's father, the Rev. Henry E. Simon, pastor of the church, will preach the ordination sermon.

Area Lutheran clergymen and the Rev. Andrew Chiu, president of the Missouri Synod's Hong Kong Lutheran Conference, and the Rev. Carl Luecke, Menasha also will participate in the services.

A reception in the church parlor will follow the ordination.

The alternatives, included for the first time, provide a fresh note about the joyful, hopeful qualities of love, through passages from 1st Corinthians 13 and The Song of Solomon 2:10-13, which reads:

"Arise, my love, my fair one, and come away; for lo, the winter is past the rain is over and gone. The flowers appear on earth, the time of singing has come, and the voice of the turtle dove is heard in our land."

"The fig tree puts forth its figs, and the vines are in blossom; they give forth fragrance. Arise, my love, my fair one, and come away."

Lutheran Family Day Picnic, Auction Sunday in Waushara County

Lutherans from the South Wisconsin District of the Missouri Synod will hold their annual Family Day picnic Sunday at Camp LuWiSoMo on the shores of Round Lake in Waushara County.

The Rev. Mark Wegner, pastor of Monona Lutheran Church, Madison, will speak at worship services at 3 p.m. at the lake front.

'Radical Bible' Published

Comfort the Afflicted or Afflict the Comfortable?

NEW YORK (AP) — The Bible has been used by some to comfort the afflicted, but now comes "The Radical Bible," which aims to afflict the comfortable.

This pocket-sized paperback with a cover that looks like blue denim takes selected passages from the Bible and juxtaposes them with quotations and facts from prominent individuals and organizations about the problems of the world and its developing nations.

"The Radical Bible is intended to confront Americans with the need for justice and the importance of meeting the demands of the poor countries of the world," says Philip Scharper, editor-in-chief of Orbis Books, publishers for the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America at Maryknoll, N.Y., which has adapted the Radical Bible from its original German version.

The book sold nearly 150,000 copies in Europe and is ready to go into its second printing in the United States. It sells for $1.95.

A spokesman for Orbis reports reader reaction has been most enthusiastic. "It's a book that hits you right between the eyes."

Quoted from Exodus, Isaiah and Matthew contrast with statements from Martin Luther King, Mahatma Gandhi, Julius K. Nyerere, the president of Tanzania, as well as items from the diary of a Brazilian slum dweller and notes from conferences on world development.

The Bible story of the beggar Lazarus and the rich man who feasted sumptuously is juxtaposed with a quote from a Presbyterian study that notes, "The dominantly 'white' nations are those with the most 'Christian' tradition and are most often identified with the oppressor and seen as the enemy of the poor."

Passages from Luke reads, "Blessed are you poor for yours is the kingdom of God. Blessed are you that hunger; now, for you shall be satisfied."

Then there are the notes from the diary of Carolina Maria de Jesus, who lives in the slums of Brazil.

"The money didn't stretch far enough to buy meat, so I cooked macaroni with carrot. I didn't have any grease, it was horrible. Vera was the only one who complained yet asked for more."

"People must be aware of the all."

Number of Lutherans Down in State

Minnesota Ranked First, Wisconsin Slips to Third Place

Minnesota remains the state with the most Lutherans, and Wisconsin dropped from second place to third, according to statistics compiled by the Lutheran Council in the United States through its Office of Research, Statistics and Archives.

The Lutheran Council office reported 1,001,639 Lutherans in the North Star state who belong to the American Lutheran Church, the Lutheran Church in America and the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod — the three bodies participating in the council.

Pennsylvania has the second largest number of Lutherans — 866,768, according to the Lutheran Council statistics. Wisconsin was in second place last year, but dropped to third with its total of 751,717 baptized Lutherans in the three major denominations.

Lutherans are scarce in Vermont (1,512), Maine (3,359) and Hawaii (3,986), the statistics revealed.

California reported the largest decrease in baptized Lutherans — down 15,044. The state has a total of 425,103 Lutherans. Pennsylvania had the second largest decrease, dropping 13,079 to its total of 866,768. New York reported a decrease of 8,866 to a total of 363,871; and the number of baptized Lutherans in Wisconsin declined 6,915 to 751,717.

Increases were reported in Florida (up 2,226 to a total of 113,313), Texas (up 1,132 to 245,449) and Arizona (up 1,036 to 42,837).

3 Appointments Affect St. John In Little Chute

GREEN BAY — Three clergy appointments affecting St. John Nepomucene, Little Chute, have been announced by the Most Rev. Aloysius J. Wycislo, bishop of Green Bay.

They are effective Aug. 1. The Rev. Kenneth Van De Ven, associate pastor at St. John, will become associate pastor at St. Anthony in Niagara. He had been associate pastor at St. Margaret-Mary in Neenah before he came to St. John last Aug. 3.

The Rev. Donald Becker, temporary administrator of St. Vincent de Paul in Oshkosh, will replace Van De Ven. Becker was ordained May 29, 1971, at Manitowoc and has served at two parishes in the diocese.

The Rev. Robert Rank also will leave St. John Church to become a faculty member to coordinate, develop and help implement religion education programs at St. John High School in Little Chute. He will continue to live at the rectory.

Rank was associate pastor at Sacred Heart, Appleton, from Aug. 16, 1968, to Aug. 3, 1971, when he was appointed to the same position at St. John.

Objectives Outlined for Agencies in Diocese

GREEN BAY — The purpose and goals of each diocesan agency and office, along with possible improvements in service, were explored recently when Mark F. Schmitt, auxiliary bishop of Green Bay and newly appointed director of pastoral planning, held his first meeting of department heads.

In their nearly daylong meeting at Sacred Heart Center for Christian Formation, the department heads attempted to define who were the primary recipients of their services, what overlapping might exist and what were the means available to them to accomplish their goals.

Schmitt presented a statement of purpose and a list of objectives for the Office of Pastoral Planning, Development and Services.

He said the purpose of his office is to promote at all levels of pastoral services the concept of shared responsibility in the total mission of the church; and to research pastoral needs, to work toward a comprehensive pastoral plan for the diocese and to serve as a coordination office for all programming within the diocese.

Objectives

He listed three objectives. To promote the concept of shared responsibility on the parish level through the encouragement of parish councils which are fully consultative and operative.

To develop renewal and educational programs on the diocesan and parish level to inculcate the concept of the mission of the church and to encourage the mutual and active service of all groups in that mission.

To work toward the establishment of a Diocesan Pastoral A. Simon at 7 p.m. Sunday at Council, hopefully organized and ready to operate by September, 1973.

Spiritual Growth

It was agreed by Schmitt and the department heads that there should be one common and well-coordinated program for religious and spiritual growth in the diocese. Instead of having a large number of groups doing a telling each other, every effort should be made to dovetail these programs so that maximum results and efficiency can be realized. "We should be going in the same direction together," the bishop said.

More good programs can be successfully completed if there are cooperative efforts so that time, energy and money are not wasted. It was pointed out.

Other diocesan programs will be more cooperative efforts. It was decided that the Academy of Religious Life will be the coordinating body and serve as a clearing house for all diocesan programs.

Echoes of Kellett

When William R. Kellett, chairman of the Governor's Commission on Education during the Knowles administration filed its report of wide-ranging explorations, findings and recommendations nearly two years ago, it was suggested here that the document would have its full impact at a future time.

Now Gov. Lucey among others is showing an awareness of some of the more carefully conceived criticisms and recommendations in the Kellett report, thus validating perhaps, the suggestion here many months ago.

The Kellett report, representing as it did the studied conclusions of scores of responsible and prestigious private citizens, was completed at an unfortunate time. In the nature of partisan competition, it was not realistic to expect that a Democratic governor should embrace a work that was commissioned by a preceding Republican state regime. Nor was the abrupt transfer of control of the state assembly to the Democratic party conducive to more than polite acknowledgment of the work.

Gov. Lucey, in his instructions addressed to the state department of public instruction on budget preparation format for the next biennium, noted that Superintendent of Public Instruction William Kahl has decided that he won't seek another elective term.

Therefore, Mr. Lucey wrote invitingly, his great experience should permit him to provide objective and useful

Our Supreme Interests

International discussions in an era of awesome nuclear power take on a new dimension. Perhaps the old speak-softly-and-carry-a-big-stick philosophy holds. But the result of failure to deter a nuclear conflict would be so disastrous, possibly fatal to the entire world, that negotiations are extremely delicate.

So it is that President Nixon's signing of an arms limitation agreement with the Soviet Union, the subsequent Senate ratification of part of the agreement — the rest was in the form of an executive pact — and the rather amazing formal declaration by the United States that its "supreme interests would be jeopardized" if further limitations are not mutually reached within five years, and therefore then we would feel free to break the treaty, must be viewed cautiously in the light of the immense dangers.

By agreeing to curtail the ABM program and to halt the deployment of intercontinental ballistic missiles during the interim, the United States has accepted a situation in which the Russians eventually could have the power to destroy a great many American missiles and wreak havoc upon our cities.

This has been decried by a number of commentators and other observers, not necessarily hawkish or ultra right wing. But the trouble is that trying to compare offensive weapons with defensive and the relative fire power or destructive ability of various missiles is extremely difficult. If the experts can't agree, how can the ordinary American decide whether the agreements are a threat or not? The Soviets presumably have 1,618 ICBMs to the American 1,054 but would it really matter if it were the other way around?

Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird has argued that the existence of the limiting agreements means that more money must be appropriated by Congress for the development of the non-nuclear systems with another billion dollars toward the Trident sub-

Looking Backward
Beautiful Place Being Restored

100 YEARS AGO
Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for July 13, 1872.

There are few more attractive places on the Fox River than Barber Smith's place just below the Village of Kaukauna, that was formerly known as "The Landing," during the early portaging days when Peter Martin kept the comfortable tavern under the hill, near by the Sulphur Spring.

The old planks have disappeared from the road, over which the coach and four used to rattle its passengers to Appleton and beyond; but the shady tree-covered bluffs advice on the organization of state education. One of the major events of the last decade has been the explosion in size and cost of tax-supported schools at all levels. But alone of the major state services, the structure of educational direction has changed little. Mr. Lucey achieved the merger of the two university systems, which was a wise and promising move from the student and the taxpayer interest.

But what of the other structural forms, the governor now asks Mr. Kahl. The superintendent, to illustrate, is now alone as responsible authority in a public school system enrolling nearly a million young people at a cost of a billion dollars each year. We find no other state supervision function relating to the schools that is held by a single man. All the others share authority, as with policy-directing and supervisory boards.

Should there be an education board to work in harness with the superintendent? Should the superintendent be elected or appointed? What about the relations of the vocational-technical schools and the University of Wisconsin system, now independently directed? Should there be a supreme state board, overseeing and directing the allocation of resources for all of the elements of the huge school enterprise? These are good questions and Mr. Kahl should be a useful advisor if Mr. Lucey is seriously thinking of modernizing the apparatus of a service that its founders of 1848 would be quite unable to recognize with respect to size, cost, scope, or method.

marine and half a billion for the B-1 bomber. Again this request may be part of Secretary Laird's conviction of the self-preservation need for the machines or it may be part of the bargaining pressure so that the Russians will come to further agreements. Secretary Laird is the hawkish hawk in the Nixon aviary but whether he has been assigned to that role or accepts it naturally is not clear. The threat of arms building has seemed to have moved the Soviets in the past.

President Nixon may have gone to Moscow and developed the agreements with the vision of re-election in his head. It was a way to woo the more liberal independents and gain more votes if he assumes that the hardliners have no where else to go. He cannot be blamed for such tactics. Even if personal political ambition were his primary motivation, it may have been advantageous for the hope of peace in the world.

One need not discard the belief that the Russian leaders would like to control the world to acknowledge that the appearance of trust and some forbearance on our part may help to lead them toward more arms limitation agreements and living up to the treaties. The dangers of nuclear blackmail are always possible but destruction would be so great even for the more powerful that a real conflict could be risked only by madmen. Such men could come to power — there was Hitler — but it is usually fear as much as greed that causes war and we must continue to be vigilant. As Henry Kissinger pointed out in his speech to Congress, "the deepest question we ask is not whether we can trust the Soviets, but whether we can trust ourselves. . . . We must not develop a national psychology by which we can act only on the basis of what we are against and not what we are for."

We are for peace, justice and liberty. Whatever their political philosophies, so are the great majority of people in the world if they are not too miserable from want to care. The Russians know it, too.

Most of them are lured by the bright lights of Hong Kong, the hope of a good job in the industrialized British crown colony and material benefits they could not hope for in Communist China.

To attain this goal, they brave the menace of Chinese gunboats, treacherous tides and sharks that infest the waters of Deep Bay in a marathon swim to Hong Kong.

Many of these refugees swim towards Laufashan, a sleepy little village on the shores of Deep Bay in Hong Kong's New Territories. They usually make their move when there is little moonlight and the weather is good. But the danger is great during the swim which takes from four up to eight hours.

Some months ago two youths 'were swimming wearily towards the island of Hong Kong looming out of the darkness when the water swirled and a shark or barracuda swam toward them.

One of the swimmers, 20-year-old Chan Sze-king screamed in terror as razor sharp teeth tore the flesh from just below his knee and savaged his leg.

The attacker struck again, ripping at Chan's calf. A third time the teeth snapped clamping on Chan's foot and dragging him down. He twisted and writhed and the teeth finally released their grip.

Struggling to the surface, Chan cried out to his companion who swam toward him. Chan survived, but lost his leg.

Most of the fugitives who swim the bay are in their late teens or early 20s. Few older people attempt it. Late in the year as the water becomes colder with approaching winter, a number of bodies wash ashore in Hong Kong. But still they come.

In the first 10 months of 1971, about 3,300 refugees were apprehended by Hong Kong authorities as they entered the colony. For every one caught, probably another four slipped in unnoticed, officials say.

Members of voluntary organizations aiding refugees believe that in recent months less are trying to enter Hong Kong undetected since most of them have become aware that they will not be deported. And by reporting to police stations they have a better chance of making contact with friends or relatives.

The refugees are driven less by political considerations than a desire to enjoy the greater freedom they have heard exists in Hong Kong.

Chan, who lost his leg, was working on an agricultural commune about 20 miles

Wisconsin Report
Representation by Numbers
Leaves Much to be Desired

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
MADISON — Ten years after the United States Supreme Court asserted its authority in the interpretation of the equal representation principle that buttresses American government, there are sober, serious and honest small "d" democrats who wonder if the cause of "fair representation" has been truly served.

Viewing the awkward consequences of the political map carving in Wisconsin this year, the full impact of which has not yet been registered, the question arises whether arithmetically equal representation standing alone is sufficient in an objectively democratic system.

More specifically, is exact numerical equality adequate, or desirable, or truly fair, when the price paid is sacrifice of community of interest, community identity, blatantly calculated manipulation for party interests and those of incumbents who happened to be involved when the decennial census date became available?

Arithmetic Equality
A studious friend of wide ranging habits of reading has thoughtfully relayed a paper written for a national journal of academic sponsorship by a professional political scientist of the University of California.

Prof. Gordon Baker writes that the court-forced wave of legislative and congressional districting has created the most nearly equal constituencies in the history of the country. Arithmetic equality is more generally attained now than the reformers who crusaded against the "rotten borough" districts had dared to hope they could get.

"But proponents of 'one man, one vote,' should neither rest on their laurels nor view the scene with rose tinted glasses," he warns. "For the current remapping also promises the most extensive gerrymandering.

both sophisticated and crude, in the nation's history. And paradoxically, the problem of district manipulation has been facilitated and accentuated by the increasing judicial preoccupation with population equality."

Justice Warren Opinion
He writes that no less a man than former Chief Justice Earl Warren of the United States Supreme Court in a landmark reapportionment decision conceded that the integrity of political subdivisions, and the ideal of compact districts (as contained in the Wisconsin Constitution since 1848), among possibly others, may justify mild deviations from population equality. But successive court edicts have wiped out the Warren qualifications.

All of which is surely relevant to the political confusion wrought in Wisconsin by the new legislative apportionment act, which ranks nearly 99 per cent pure by test of slide rule, but is a clumsy, messy, confusing and irritating blur by any other standard.

Read and Examine
Anybody who feels that is unfairly severe should read the new act and examine its mapping. Many districts will put the examiner in mind of the childish scrawls of pre kindergarten with respect to any relevance to other political or economic geography or configuration in any other test except arithmetic purity.

Baker suggests that authors of such hodgepodes were evidently advised that partisan gerrymandering is more likely to withstand judicial scrutiny than slight population deviations. He nominates with tongue in cheek some authors of California reapportionment bills as candidates for the "Elbridge Gerry Memorial Award for Creative Cartography," after the early Massachusetts governor whose name has been given to "gerrymandering."

There are some worthy candidates in Wisconsin, too, notably Rep. Fredrick Kessler (now a Lucey-appointed judge in Milwaukee) who shepherded the new Wisconsin apportionment.

Caribbean Beautiful; Puerto Rico Bad

Editor, The Post-Crescent:

I have just finished reading your editorial of Sunday, July 9th, "Caribbean Skies No Longer Blue." Having recently returned from a seven month stay in Puerto Rico, I find that I disagree with your article.

The three main areas for tourists in San Juan are the Condado, Isla Verde, and Ocean Park. These areas consist of hotels, guest houses, and miles and miles of beautiful beaches unspoiled by pollution. There is industry in P.R. and also the Virgin Islands but as of yet it is not the cause of lost tourist trade.

I lived and worked with people in Puerto Rico whose livelihood depends on the tourist trade and this past winter was one of the worst seasons they have had.

Tourists are not traveling to Puerto Rico because they are tired of being fleeced of their money and being mistreated. For example one woman complained to me that she was paying $60 a day for her hotel room, which included dinner, but service was so bad that she had to wait three hours for dinner.

Sword and Sermon Tell
Of Mid-East

WASHINGTON — The Middle East seems continually to blaze in today's headlines, but imagine the front pages if there had been newspapers 1,300 years ago.

Arabic was spoken from Portugal and Spain to the edge of China; the law of Islam was followed from the shores of Atlantic Africa to the steppes of Central Asia; the hoofbeats of conquering horsemen, the prayer calls from minarets, the noise of empire building was heard across 4,000 miles.

This huge area was being tuned to the teachings of the prophet Mohammed. With bloodshed and brilliance, Arab warriors were forging an empire greater than Rome's.

Moslem Writer
How it came about and how the Prophet's teachings still dominate the Middle East today are related in "The Sword and the Sermon" in the July National Geographic.

The author is an American Moslem, staff writer and photographer Thomas J. Abernethy, who is entitled to add hajji to his name for completing the sacred pilgrimage to Mecca.

Accompanying the article is another in the National Geographic's series of cultural supplements, a double sided wall map that surveys the entire range of Middle Eastern lands and peoples.

194 Million People
The map is a human mosaic of the 194 million people — a twentieth of the world's population — that live in this area covering a twelfth of the Earth's surface.

The Middle East is a cultural area stretching from European Turkey eastward to Afghanistan and westward to Morocco. It includes 22 nations, 17 of them predominately Arab.

The majority of Middle Easterners are village farmers, sharing similar ways of vesting a living from their arid environment. Nine out of ten claim Islam as their religion, and more than half speak Arabic.

Empires' Ebb and Flow
The map's reverse details the ebb and flow of empires in the Middle East, from the time of Alexander the Great to the age of European imperialism, now supplanted by independent nations, many caught up in the struggle for Arab unity.

The 20th-century crises in the Holy Land are illustrated with five extra maps. Additional diagrams picture the walled city of Jerusalem, a sanctuary now shared by the Christian, Jewish, and Moslem faiths, and trace the sacred pilgrimage of Islamic believers from Mecca to Arafat.

A lengthy map text provides background filling in today's Middle East headlines: how water still sets the pace of life, how women are taking on a new look, how oil under desert sands increases as a major trump in world politics, and how the ballot box is now beginning to share the rule with the sword and the sermon.

When my job in San Juan was finished I took my money and vacationed in the Virgin Islands where English is spoken and the tourist dollar is welcome.

I will not go back to Puerto Rico and would not advise any of my friends to go there. You can get robbed, raped, and cheated at home.

What good are sunshine and beautiful beaches if you can't enjoy them?

Nicklaus Makes Bid in Open

BULLETIN
MURFIELD, Scotland — AP — Jack Nicklaus made his third birdie of the day on the par five fifth hole and moved within three strokes of leader Lee Trevino in the final round of the British Open Saturday.

Nicklaus missed the green of the first hole but chipped to six feet to save par. After driving within a few yards of the green on the 349-yard second hole, Nicklaus again chipped to six feet and made the putt for a birdie.

The Golden Bear also birdied the third hole, while both Trevino and England's Tony Jacklin bogeyed the first.

Jacklin parred the second and third, Trevino birdied the second and parred the third, while Nicklaus parred the fourth hole and birdied the fifth.

At that stage Trevino was six under, Jacklin four, and Nicklaus three under par for the tournament.

MURFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Just because Jack Nicklaus is six strokes out of first place in his quest for the third leg of his pro Grand Slam, don't count him out.

That's the word from both Lee Trevino, the defending champion and third-round leader.

The tourney winds up today. Exciting in five straight birdies that gave him a one-stroke lead after Friday's third round Trevino said: "Don't rule out Jack Nicklaus for the title. He doesn't like to be beaten."

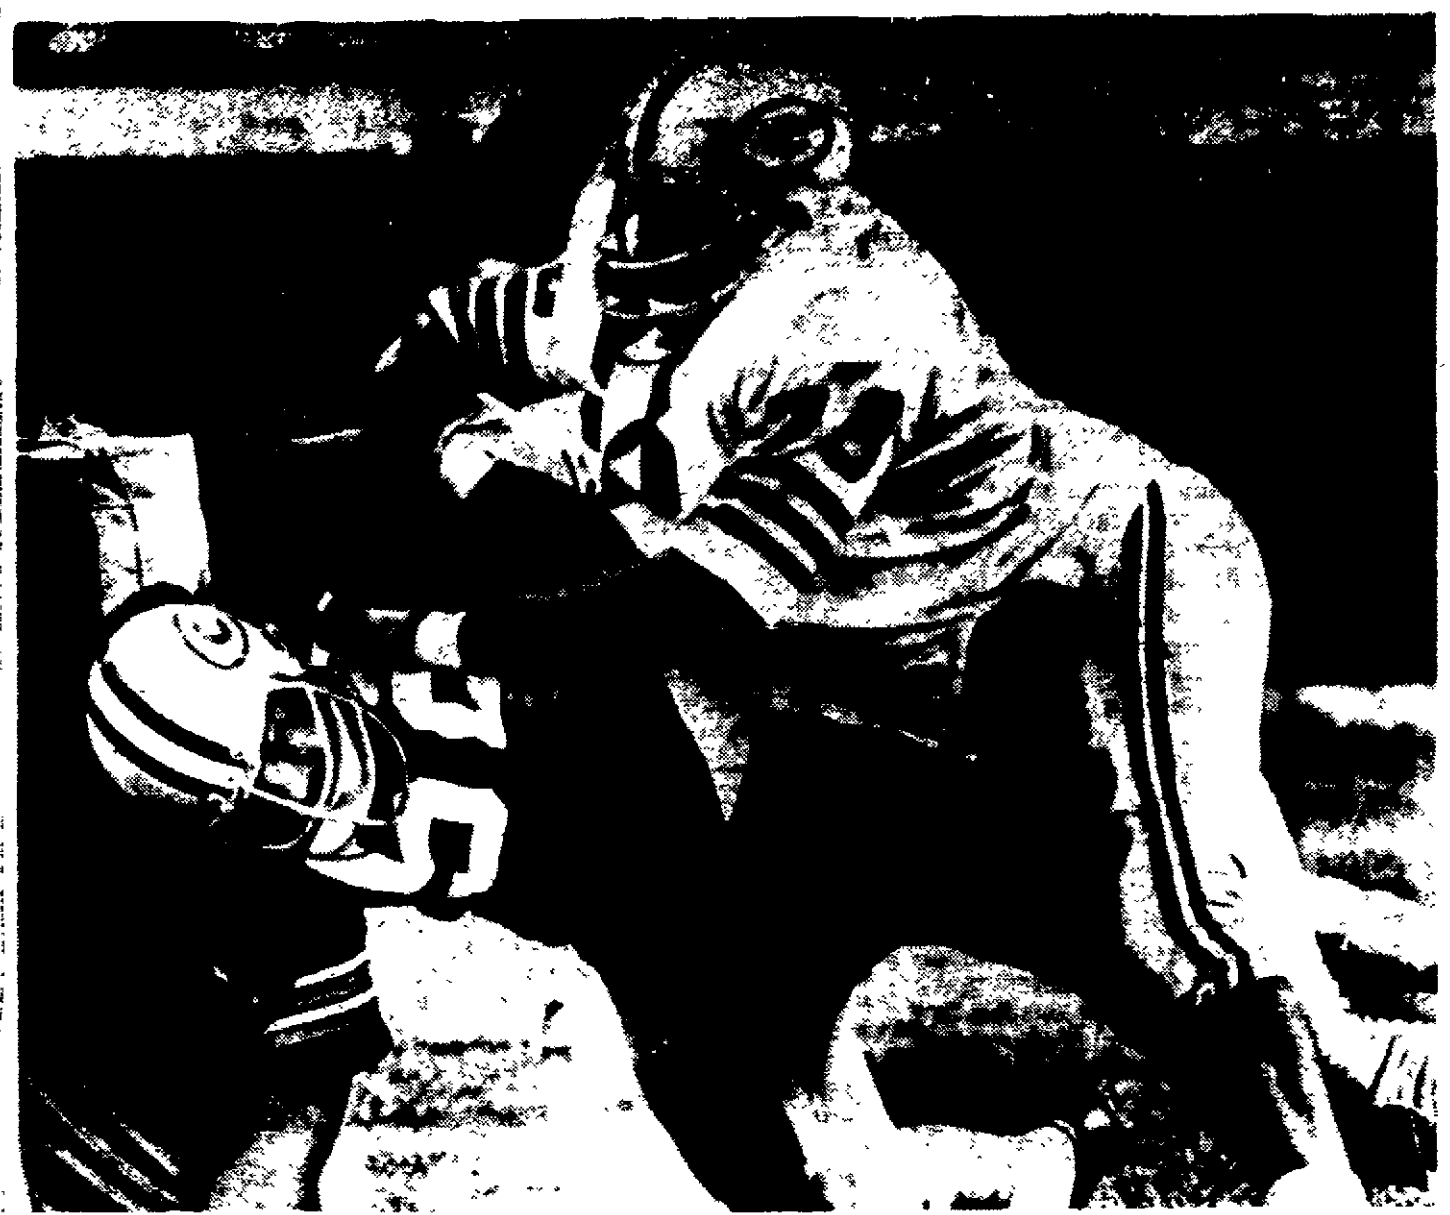

And Nicklaus' comment was "I've won many times from six strokes behind the leader."

The 32-year-old Golden Bear needs to win his third British Open title for the third leg of the never-accomplished Grand Slam of modern golf—all four major pro championships in the same year.

On Murfield's historic links, 6,892 yards of Scottish grass and heather, with a par 36-35-71, Trevino's score was 71-70-66-207, six shots under par. Tony Jacklin was one stroke back.

Doug Sanders, who has twice been second to Nicklaus for the British championship, was in third place with 71-71-69-211. Brian Barnes, British Ryder Cup star, was fourth with 71-72-69-212 and Nicklaus loomed with 70-72-71-213.

Sixty-four golfers qualified for the final round with 54-hole aggregates of 225 and ties.

Colbert, Johnson Share 2nd Round Lead in GMO

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Jim Colbert and George Johnson, plained of the wind gusts of up to 20 miles per hour, which were especially tricky late in the pro golf tour, survived the day as a thunderstorm swirling winds and a four-way broke just after play ended challenge Friday to share a Still, it took a par 142 total for one-stroke lead after two rounds in the $125,000 Greater Milwaukee Open.

Johnson, one of four first round leaders at 65, came back with a 68 for a nine-under total of 133 over the 6,514 yard, par 71 Tripoli Golf Club course.

Colbert, one down at 66 Thursday, was six under for his first eight holes Friday before settling for 67.

Tied at 134 were rookie Billy Zioebro, veterans Rod Funseth and Chuck Courtney and Tom Ulozas, a second year non-exempt player. Ulozas, another of Thursday's co-leaders, blew a chance to tie for the lead when he missed a four-foot putt on his last hole for a bogey.

Colbert's 65 was the day's best round. Lee Wykle and Brian Allin each had 66s, with Allin earning a tie at 135 with Gibby Gilbert and home state favorite Don Iverson of La Crosse. Wis. Funseth and Zioebro each shot 67s.

Funseth, despite a sore right wrist, went nine under early in the day with help of an eagle on the 476-yard, par five 17th. The hole he said cost him the title here in 1971. Funseth, third round leader here a year ago, bogeyed the hole on the final day and finished fifth.

Johnson charged into a temporary sole lead at nine under after 13 when Ulozas, who had been in, bogeyed his last hole. Ulozas admitted to nervousness.

"I was just so intent on making sure the blade was square I just missed it," he said of the errant four-foot putt. "But the wind today was a definite factor. I see these guys shooting 65s and I think that's marvelous."

Courtney said it might take a total of 15 under, one fewer than required last year, to take the $25,000 first prize.

"There are two very easy par fives on the back nine, which is listed at par 36 but which is really about a par 34," he said. "The front nine holes are pretty much legitimate."

Ryan's Shutout String Snapped Briggs Powers Brewers Win

MILWAUKEE (AP) — John Briggs connected—for two home runs—but Manager Del Crandall didn't connect—two trips to the mound which cost his starting pitcher the victory—as the Milwaukee Brewers dumped California Angels 7-3 Friday night.

Briggs connected on two fast balls tossed by losing pitcher Nolan Ryan, 11-6, the first for a grand slam which snapped the Angel hurler's 20 inning scoreless streak.

"When you throw as hard as he does, you just try and make contact," Briggs said.

The grand slam followed a walk to Rick Auerbach, a bloop single by Joe Lahoud and a walk to George Scott in the third inning. The second circuit smash came in the eighth after a single by Scott.

Leads Team
Briggs now leads the team in homers with 13, runs batted in with 37 and in batting average at .283.

"Some hitters get off to a quick start. But I've never been one of those guys who get to the top 10 early in the spring," he said.

"I'm a late starter. It was especially true after I signed late this past spring and then the strike came along. I was being platted quite a bit there for a spell and this didn't help either."

Crandall failed to connect a walk to the mound in the fifth inning, which was interrupted for 57 minutes by rain, with another walk he had made to confer with starter Jim Lonborg before the break.

Automatic Removal
Angel Manager Del Rice, who subbed for Crandall when both were catchers with the Milwaukee Braves, pointed out to umpires a rule which requires the automatic removal of a pitcher if his manager makes two such visits in one inning.

This forced Lonborg leave the game with two outs in the fifth inning, one short of the five full innings required in another portion of the rulebook to earn a victory.

Tough on Del
"This probably was the weirdest thing that's happened to me in my life," Lonborg said, but was sympathetic toward Crandall.

"It's a lot tougher on him than me," the pitcher said. Lonborg, allowed only two sin-

"The big thing is that our team won—and here at home, where we do our best. I'll have a lot of chances to win more ball games."

Ken Sanders allowed the final pinch-single in the ninth.

"I just made a mistake," tally on John Stephenson's Crandall confessed. "I definitely had forgotten. I feel badly."

The two teams were to meet again this afternoon with two runs in the third inning on Bob southpaws, Gary Ryerson of the Brewers and Clyde Wright of the Angels, taking the Frank Linzy, who replaced scheduled Sunday.

Wants to Help Packers Starr Would be No. 2

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — If I can't be the starter I'll do Bart Starr, trying to come back everything in my power to help for a 17th season with the team."

Green Bay Packers after miss- Starr, 38, had said several ing most of 1971 because of two months ago he would decide by arm operations, indicated for July 1 whether to retire, adding the first time Friday he would stay on if he thought he could be the No. 1 quarter-back. Starr met his deadline.

"I'm going to do everything I saying he would try again, but can to keep my job," Starr is listed No. 2 behind second said. "I will not just hand over year man Scott Hunter on the the starting position. However, tentative depth chart.

Hunter said as far as he was concerned, the depth chart was meaningless at this point.

"It's a tentative thing," he said. "The exhibition season will decide the depth chart."

Several young players impressed Coach Dan Devine in Friday's double drill.

"The rookies are way, way ahead of last year," Devine said. "They'll have a fairer opportunity to make the team because they'll have learned more. I have a feeling they're going to push the veterans."

Devine singled out rookie running backs Robert Hudson and Jesse Lakes for their work in the afternoon's live scrimmage and said veteran backup center Cal Withrow looked the best of the offensive linemen.

Devine said Charles Burrell, the 290 pound rookie defensive tackle, made some good hits but needed more consistency and better condition. Donnell Smith, a disappointment as a rookie defensive lineman last year, has shown more consistency this year Devine said.

The defense dominated the scrimmage, which Devine said was normal for this stage of training camp.

Connally, Close Aide of Nixon, Blasts McGovern

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, a Democrat and close ally of President Nixon, has fired verbal barrages in what promises to be a continuing White House campaign assault on Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic presidential nominee.

President Nixon has said he will avoid public involvement in politics until after next month's Republican convention. But he let Connally use the front lawn of the White House on Friday to take roundhouse swings at McGovern before Vietnamese cameras and microphones.

Identifying himself as a life-long Democrat who never bolted the party ticket, Connally said he will not support McGovern and will try to rally Democrats behind Nixon.

Connally took aim at McGovern's pledge to bring home all American troops and war prisoners from Southeast Asia within 90 days after his inauguration if elected.

"Obviously," said Connally, "a president of the United States has no capacity, no power of the Western White House oner to bring home prisoners of war in the hands of the North Vietnamese."

Seven Moose Lodges Lose Tax Exemption

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Seven Moose lodges were stripped of their tax exempt status Friday by the Wisconsin Department of Revenue because of what was described as their discriminatory membership practices.

The director of the agency's Bureau of Management Services, Roland Budnar, said lodges in River Falls, Bloomer, Cudahy, Janesville, Madison, Rice Lake and Saukville have to file state corporate income tax forms for 1972.

Twenty-five local Wisconsin fraternal groups have lost their membership application. Tax exempt status since May as a result of a federal court order issued last November. The action, which came in a case brought by Milwaukee Alder James Orville Pitts, requires revocation for all organizations, said Budnar, which discriminate racially in their membership practices.

NEW YORK (AP) — Aline B. Saarinen, chief of the National Broadcasting Company's news vision show "For Women Only," died in a nursing Paris bureau a year and a half ago she became the first woman to hold such a position.

Mrs. Saarinen, the widow of the Finnish-born architect Eero Saarinen, had been suffering from the effects of a brain tumor since she died Thursday night, New York University's Institute of Fine Arts.

She was an associate editor of The New York Times before joining NBC. Her subjects included city planning, postal stamp design, museum-go-

"It is an unfair statement, frankly, sabotages the efforts of this administration and of the peace negotiators in Paris to try to bring the war to an end."

Connally came here to report to Nixon on a 35-day trip around the world undertaken at the President's request.

Asked about continuing speculation that Nixon might tag him to replace Vice President Spiro T. Agnew on the GOP ticket, Connally said he doesn't want the job and doesn't expect it will be offered.

Delegate to Boys' Nation Is 'Ex-Con'

Peter Biersteker is on his way to Washington, D.C., to represent Wisconsin at Boys' Nation, the nationwide convention of delegates selected from Boys' State sessions.

Biersteker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Biersteker, 512 Janssen St., Combined Locks, was sponsored at Badger Boys' State at Ripon College in June by the William Verhagen Post firm who grew suspicious because he did not recognize the car.

The man and three other persons in the car followed Steffens and the boy and stopped them in the City of Appleton. At that time, they forced the car over and caught the boy. Steffens ran from the scene, but later turned himself in to Appleton police.

No court date has been set for Steffens' arraignment.

Vernon Gerrits Of Freedom Dies At Marshfield

FREEDOM — Vernon (Shorty) Gerrits, 40, route 1, Kaukauna, died Friday at St. Joseph's Hospital, Marshfield, where he had been a patient for three weeks.

He was the owner and operator of Shorty's DX Service Station and beer and liquor outlet here for the past 10 years. He also was assistant fire chief and a member of the Freedom Volunteer Fire Department.

Gerrits was born in Black Creek and had lived in Freedom most of his life. He served in the U.S. Air Force for four years during the Korean War and was a member of the Little Chute American Legion and VFW Post, Little Chute. He also was a member of the Freedom Athletic Association and Holy Name Society, St. Nicholas Catholic Church.

Survivors are his widow, two daughters and three sons at home, one brother, five sisters and his father, Frank Gerrits of Appleton.

Funeral services are pending at Verkuilen Funeral Home, Little Chute.

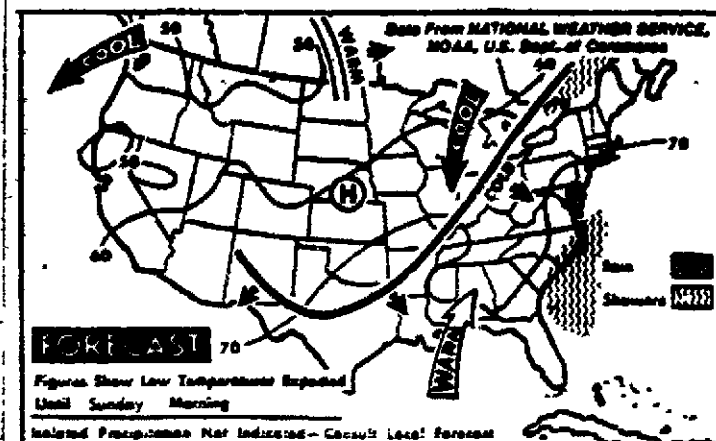

Pool Attendance Takes Nosedive

Only 4136 persons used Appleton's two swimming pools during the week of July 3-8, compared to nearly 15,000 admissions for the previous week.

Cool temperatures during much of the week and the Independence Day holiday contributed to keeping attendance down.

The Mead Park swimming pool reported 2,242 admissions, and the Erb Park pool had 1,894 users during the week.

Students admitted with season passes accounted for 1,521 of the pool users and paid afternoon admissions by children under age 12 totaled another 1,012.

Warm, humid weather is forecast to continue to night over the eastern third of the nation. Cooler weather is expected elsewhere. (AP Wirephoto Map)

Courts

OSHKOSH — David Steffens, 202 W. Division St., Kaukauna, was bound over to Circuit Court by Appleton police about 10:30 p.m. Tuesday, and charged with possession of 10 quarts of brandy allegedly stolen from The Lantern Bar, 610 W. College Ave.

Steffens is charged with taking 13 tires from the Fox Tire Co., 1653 Appleton Rd., Town of Menasha during the early morning hours of June 28.

According to Winnebago county sheriff's reports, Steffens and a juvenile male were sighted driving from the tire store company at about 3 a.m. June 28 by a former employee of the firm who grew suspicious because he did not recognize the car.

The man and three other persons in the car followed Steffens and the boy and stopped them in the City of Appleton. At that time, they forced the car over and caught the boy. Steffens ran from the scene, but later turned himself in to Appleton police.

Quick Action Saves Woman In Car Blaze

BEAVER DAM — Two Appleton ambulance attendants were firemen for a short time Friday evening.

Quick responses by Robert Sternhagen and Stanford Nyberg, employees of Gold Cross Ambulance Service, probably saved a Juneau woman from serious injury, according to a nurse who was with them in an ambulance when they came upon a burning car near here.

The ambulance crewman and Mrs. James Harp, a nurse at St. Elizabeth Hospital, Appleton, were returning from Madison where they had taken a seriously ill, six-year-old girl for treatment of a kidney disorder.

They were on the U.S. 151 bypass here when Sternhagen noticed a car "explode in flames" under him, on State 33. Sternhagen grabbed fire extinguishers from the ambulance and ran down the hillside. He got the woman out of the burning car then put out the fire, before Beaver Dam firemen and police arrived.

Nyberg pulled the ambulance onto State 33 and blocked traffic.

Beaver Dam firemen said the car, operated by Virginia Draheim, Juneau, sustained considerable damage. Mrs. Draheim was not injured.

Ricky M. Wachowiak, 18, 2500 S. Jefferson St., Friday pleaded not guilty to charges of receiving stolen property, when he appeared before Outagamie County Court Branch 1 Judge.

9 Hurt Slightly In U.S. 41 Crash

OSHKOSH — A three-car accident about 10:30 a.m. Friday on U.S. 41 at Winnebago County Trunk E sent nine Wausau and Racine persons to Mercy Medical Center for examination and treatment.

County police said a car operated by Meta M. Packard, 76, Wausau, crossed the northbound lane of U.S. 41, colliding with a car driven by Gloria J. Piper, 29, Racine, which ran into the right hand ditch. The Packard car continued on and struck a van driven by Philip P. Vander Welle, 20, Sheboygan, which was stopped at the Witzel-41 sign.

Three persons in the Packard car and six in the Piper vehicle were taken to the medical center.

Treated and released were Elona Piper, 60; Susan Belconis, 2; Michael Piper, 1; Amy Piper, 5, and Gloria Piper, 29, all of Racine; Harry Zick, 65, and Meta Packard, both of Wausau. Beryl Zick, 64, Wausau, was admitted to the hospital with face cuts and reported in good condition there this morning.

New Sewerage Board to Hold First Meeting

Inter-Community Commission Will Designate Officers

KAUKAUNA — An organizational meeting of the recently formed Inter-Community Sewerage Commission will be held at 7:30 p.m. July 19 in city hall council rooms at which time a chairman, vice chairman and secretary are to be elected.

The commission is composed of two representatives from each of the four communities involved in the regional wastewater treatment plant planning. These include Kaukauna, Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks.

The commission has the responsibility for the design and construction of the plant. A representative of Donohue Engineering and Associates, Sheboygan, the firm handling the design, will also attend the session to answer questions and become acquainted with commissioners.

Representatives of the engineering firm are already working on the design and studying distances involved for the intercepter sewer which will carry wastewater from the three villages to the treatment plant which is to be located adjacent to the existing Kaukauna facility.

The firm is also studying installation of phosphate removal facilities at the Kaukauna plant as required by the State Department of Natural Resources.

The four communities will share in financing the design and are expected to receive 80 percent reimbursement from the state and federal government.

The project when completed is expected to cost about $5 million and will be designed to meet the needs of the four municipalities for the next 50 years. Estimated date for completion of actual plant has been set for 1975 or 1976.

Agriculture Secretary To Visit Fond du Lac

FOND DU LAC — Secretary of Agriculture, Earl L. Butz, is invited guest although the session is open to the public.

Later Butz is scheduled to conduct a press conference at 11 a.m. at the merchants building before visiting the Tri-County Guernsey Show which will be in progress at the fairgrounds.

He will speak at 1 p.m. to the farmers before leaving for Oshkosh to address the state meeting of ASCS officials at 2 p.m. in the Pioneer Inn.

Senn said he will provide a lunch of beef bratwurst and that the Wisconsin Pork Producers' Council is contributing pork bratwurst to a barbecue during the event.

"We thought it would be an excellent idea to talk to farmers in Fond du Lac for a change," said Senn. Senn, an active member of the Fond du Lac Republican Party, also enlisted the aid of Rep. William Steiger, R-Wis., in recruiting Butz as a speaker.

Senn said the trip is not being coordinated with any election strategy but noted that all of Butz' appearances have political overtones.

Senn said Butz is scheduled to arrive about 10:30 a.m. in Fond du Lac to meet with farm leaders in the cow palace at the fairgrounds. Dairy co-op managers and officers, canning plant officials, and beef cattle

The woman, found near the Salvation Army building, 130 E. North St., had three empty council rooms at which time a plastic prescription bottle in her possession.

A young Appleton woman was taken by private ambulance to St. Elizabeth Hospital about 2 a.m. Friday after suffering apparent stab wounds.

The woman told Appleton police that she was attacked by an unknown person after she returned home from work.

Police were holding three steak knives found in her apartment as possible weapons, as one of the knives had small bits of flesh on it.

Hospital authorities told police that the woman sustained numerous shallow puncture wounds, unusual for a knife attack.

Three persons sustained minor injuries in a two-car collision shortly before 10 a.m. Friday in Appleton.

John F. Knox, 79, route 1, Seymour, was attempting a left turn onto Sixth Street from Memorial Drive when his car was struck on the right side by a car driven by Dennis L. Gordon, 34, 118 Olive St., Neenah. The Gordon vehicle was northbound on Memorial.

Knox received injuries to both knees and a bump on the temple. His wife, Vernal, 76, sustained lacerations to the right knee and a cut finger.

Jane Gordon, 26, complained of a pain in the right hip. Knox has been cited by Appleton police for failure to yield.

Jan G. DeLeeuw, 227 Pine St., Kimberly, was cited by Appleton police for hit and run following a rear-end collision about 10:30 p.m. Friday.

3 of Lucey's 36 Vetoes Reversed by Legislature

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — The Wisconsin legislature adjourned its brief veto session early today after overriding Gov. Patrick Lucey on only three of 36 measures he altered.

Senators dropped consideration of Lucey's vetoes shortly after midnight, which was hours after adjournment by their Assembly colleagues—who also would have to cast two-thirds votes to overturn the governor.

One of the governor's vetoes which was overturned requires the legislature's agriculture committee to review proposed Department of Natural Resources rules on animal waste management. Another requires welfare applicants to apply in person for assistance and a third makes it a crime to stop payment on a check written to an auto mortgage.

The pretension between bureaucrats and lawmakers.

"This is one of the most expedient bills in this session," said Sen. Gerald Lorge, R-Bear Creek in support of the measure. "This is a matter of the legislature versus the department heads and the executive of Wisconsin."

Supporters of the bill said governments by about $2.2 million for services they provide in advantage of statutory definition to pass directives and on they lose through state land acquisition also collapsed Friday.

Rules require a public hearing before implementation, while Lucey had offered privately to call a special session to consider the compromise measure. But state legislators decided not to go along.

Clintonville Police Cite Break-In, Larceny

CLINTONVILLE — Police investigated one case of breaking and entering and three reports of larceny here during June according to the monthly report of Police Chief James Beggs.

A total of 19 arrests were made during the month. Four children were located by police. Three minor boys and two minor girls were apprehended.

Arrests during the month were: four for speeding; two for disorderly conduct; two each for too fast for conditions and inattentive driving; and one each for failure to yield, failure to stop at arterial, operating a vehicle while intoxicated, minor transporting intoxicants, over premises possession of malt beverages, illegal U turn, and an arrest made for Waupaca County.

Budget Vetoes

Senators spent much of the late night hours studying Lucey's line vetoes of portions of the executive budget. One of those it voted to override after the Assembly had acquiesced would have allowed students to transfer county teacher college credits to state universities and another would have created an 11-member council on state welfare programs.

The lower house adjourned before considering an upper house vote of 27-4 earlier in the day supporting a measure to give the Joint Committee on Administrative Rules greater powers in controlling agency rule-making authority. It would have given the nine-member panel the power to classify administrative orders as rules in order to make them subject to legislative review and to strike down a department directive by majority vote rather than two-thirds vote.

Meter Revenue

Parking meter revenue for the month of June was $553 in collections and $42 in fines paid for a total of $595, according to the monthly police report of Police Chief James Beggs.

Fines of $865 and costs of $42.

Coalition Broke-Up

The break-up of a tenuous urban-rural coalition behind the compromise appeared to be a major reason for the action as one group thought the other would benefit disproportionately.

If the majority party caucuses had chosen to take the bill up at a special session, towns presently getting 30 cents an acre for fish and game management lands owned by the Department of Natural Resources would have gotten 50 cents an acre, and state parks would have been brought under the umbrella.

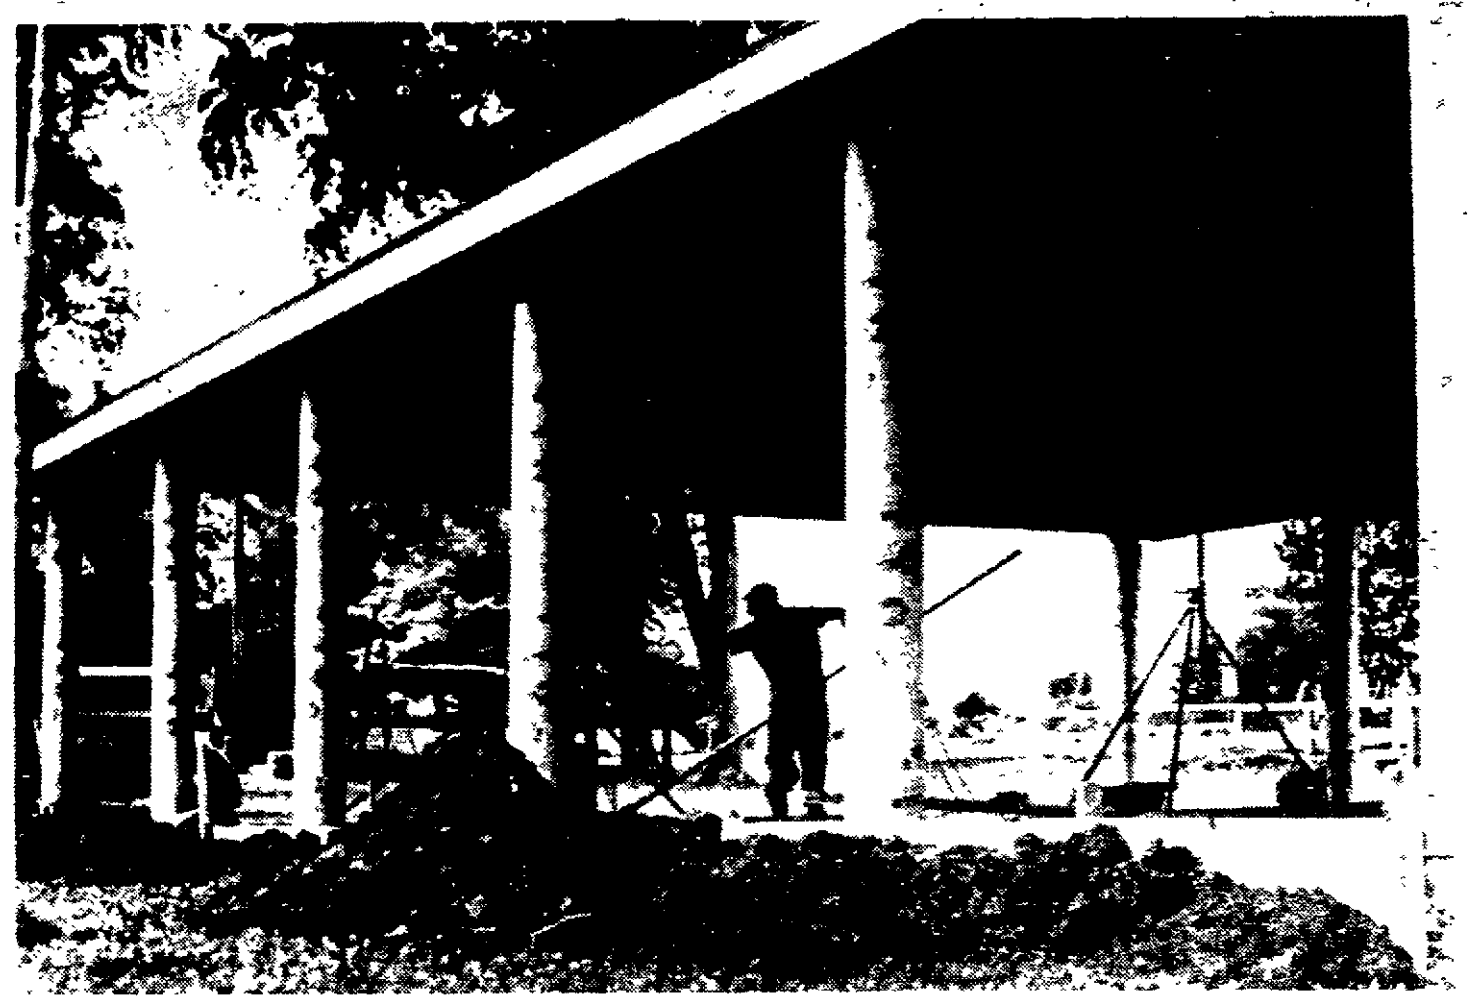

Cities would have been compensated for police and fire protection and sewage service they provide state buildings. Officials estimate that negotiated contracts for those services would have run some $2 million, with Madison being the largest, single beneficiary.

"Good Compromise"

"It was a good compromise," Rep. Midge Miller, D-Madison, said. She said the bill passed issued, 11 calls turned over to other departments, and checks totaling $91 were collected for merchants.

The school safety patrols for the past year were taken on an out-of-pocket basis by the Wisconsin Dells.

Tavern operator (bartender) licenses for 49 persons were approved Tuesday night by the city council. They were checked and approved by the license committee and police chief before being submitted to the council. Thirty-four licenses were issued to city residents and 15 to out-of-the-city residents.

The concrete floor was poured Wednesday for the new park at Dale, and the facility is expected to be ready for the village's Homecoming Fiesta next week. The floor was made smooth by Le Roy Ruppel, one of several people in the community who have pitched in to build the facility. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Manawa Turns Out Top-Notch Band Back Home

BY CAROL DIEHL Post-Crescent Correspondent

MANAWA — The Little Wolf High School marching band arrived home about 5:30 a.m. today to the sound of sirens from the Manawa Rural Fire Department leading the three buses to the high school.

Approximately 300 parents and citizens, led by Mayor George Jensen, greeted Douglas Erickson, band director, and 88 young people who brought home the Grand Marshal's trophy from the National Cherry Festival in Traverse City, Mich. The Manawa band was the first band to ever win the coveted trophy in the 46 years of the festival's existence. It is given each year to the outstanding marching unit in open competition.

Parade on Friday afternoon. The band also performed in the concert in downtown Traverse City and the lodge where the sausage prepared under the direction of Mrs. Viola Flanagan, head cook of the hot lunch program at the high school.

Erickson said, "We received many kind words and compliments from parade officials and townspeople; even strangers on the ferry commented on the fine group of young people in our band. It is a joy to work with people who have the pride that the Manawa band has, and I appreciate the hard work and time that they put into this event."

Upon their arrival back home, a former member of the Manawa band was treated to a breakfast of french toast and feelings of those who waited from 3 a.m. Saturday to say thank you.

As Mrs. Erickson said, "This is what a small town is all about!"

Engraved Plaque

Arrangements for the occasion were planned by Ken Kelly, Charles Okonski and Jensen.

Erickson was presented an engraved plaque of appreciation signed by the mayor, which read, "In appreciation to Douglas Erickson for the talent and outstanding leadership given to this community."

Upon receiving the award, Erickson said, in my life my family is first, second is the band and the school."

Dr. Kent Richmond, pastor of the United Methodist Church, acted as master of ceremonies.

"At the end of three days, we were a well-known group. The kids did a fantastic job."

Chilton Schedules 'Toyland Parade'

CHILTON — The annual summer parade in the hospital-nursing home area will begin at 7 p.m. July 20, the recreation department has announced.

This year's theme will be "Toyland Parade."

Children will assemble at the high school playground at 6:30 p.m. At 7 p.m. they will proceed down Park Street to Brooklyn Street, past Calumet Memorial Hospital and the Toth Nursing Home and then disband at Kink's Park, where prizes will be awarded for the best costumes and the Grand Cherry Royale in a number of categories.

Regents Expand University Aid For Minorities

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — A plan to expand opportunities for minority education and employment at the University of Wisconsin received approval from the Board of Regents Friday.

The plan recommends a 30 percent increase in funding for minority programs in the next biennium. This would mean about $200,000 in additional money for the programs.

Offices of Equal Opportunity Employment would be established in the office of the university president and of each campus chancellor.

New Vice President

The plan also creates the position of an associate vice president for academic affairs, who will be charged with evaluating and coordinating educational programs aimed at minority and disadvantaged students.

The report does not necessarily mean the hiring of additional staff, with the exception of the new associate vice president.

The regents' action, which came on a unanimous voice vote, does not approve the additional $600,000 for minority programs as part of the university's proposed budget. Final approval must come as part of action on the budget itself.

In addition to the $600,000 allocation, the report suggests the university re-evaluate some of its minority programs eliminating some and putting the money into others with more educational value.

Varying Fees

Regents approved the two-tiered fee structure which would separate Madison and Milwaukee campuses from other regents' system for the purpose of allocating tuition fees as a percentage of the cost of education.

The regents accepted a recommendation on student fees, which would allow them to vary as much as $50 a semester among the various State campuses.

The recommendation said a committee should be formed on each campus to advise the regents on how to use that money.

District residents will be able to discuss areas and costs of the road allocated to fixed expenses, which would be approved 1972-73 budget at a meeting, the committee should public hearing from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday in the school here, the regents said.

Van Susteren Named Alimony Law Challenged

Outagamie County Judge Ursula P. Van Susteren has been named in a federal court class action suit brought by a Milwaukee man who is challenging the constitutionality of Wisconsin's alimony law, which he contends discriminates against men.

The civil action, initiated in the U.S. Eastern District Court, Milwaukee, was brought by James A. Sigl as an individual and on behalf of other men paying alimony.

Judges are protected by judicial immunity from many types of civil actions. Outagamie County Judge Nick F. Schaefer three years ago was sued for $50,000 by a young, rural Kaukauna man who faced him on drug charges, but a federal judge dismissed the civil suit on grounds that Schaefer had judicial immunity.

Violates Amendment

Sigl contended that Wisconsin's alimony statute, 247.26, violates the 14th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution which provides equal protection to all citizens. He charged that the judged alimony, to the detriment of the male, but does not allow the male alimony to the detriment of the female.

Ensisley said Sigl, over the 12 years, had paid about $20,000 of the $30,000 alimony and support to be owed.

Child Custody Issue

Van Susteren ordered Sigl to pay $253 a month alimony. He also asked for an investigation by July 14 or face being jailed for contempt of court. Sigl also asked for payment of Family Conciliation was ordered to pay $1,000 in help determine the child legal fees for his ex-wife's attorney, Dennis Herrling.

Sigl also asked for a temporary injunction, preventing Van Susteren from jailing him for contempt of court pending the hearing on the civil suit. Van Susteren said Friday he probably would not act on the contempt issue until and if prompted to do so by Mrs. Sigl's attorney.

Sufficient Funds

Sigl said he does not have sufficient funds to comply with the court order regarding alimony. He also stated that he could lose his Milwaukee factory job if he is jailed for contempt. Living with Sigl, besides the 14-year-old daughter, is an older daughter and his 93-year-old mother.

The Sigs were divorced in 1960 in Outagamie County Court. Mrs. Sigl, until recently, worked as a housekeeper for a Milwaukee family. She has moved back to Outagamie County.

Initial Appearance

Sigl, a member of the Wisconsin Institute on Divorce, Inc., a divorced men's rights organization based in Milwaukee, made his initial appearance in Van Susteren's court last Feb. 9, may solicit a response from the state attorney general or from County Family Court Commissioner Mrs. Sigl's attorney.

The girl has been with her father for the past three years, although original custody had been granted to the mother.

Var Susteren has 20 days to answer the complaint, served on him Friday by a federal marshal. He told a reporter he does not intend to answer the complaint personally, although he may solicit a response from the state attorney general or from County Family Court Commissioner Mrs. Sigl's attorney.

Senate Confirms Appointment Farmer OK'd for DNR Board

MADISON — A Waupaca County farmer, Lawrence Dahl, Milwaukee to the Industry, Labor and Human Relations Commission and 15 other Lucey appointees. The lawmakers acted without debate on this move, which several GOP senators had announced earlier this week they intended to request.

Both of the appointees will be allowed to continue serving in their jobs until the upper house takes action on their appointments. Such action is not expected until after the 1973 legislature convenes.

The Senate voted unanimously to approve the appointment of John Zinos of mously to approve the appointment of 15 members on the new Snowmobile Recreational Council and 15 other Lucey appointees. It also finalized the appointments of three other persons after brief debate.

Chippewa Falls newspaper publisher John Lavine was confirmed on a 22-8 vote for another term as a University of Wisconsin regent.

The appointment of James Rundo of Cuba City to serve on the Agriculture Board was confirmed on a 20-10 vote.

Dahl, of Big Falls, was one of 33 Lucey appointees okayed by the Senate. Two others were sent to committees before adjourning shortly after 1 a.m. The appointment of a farmer as a member of the resources board had been a campaign pledge of Lucey. Dahl is a National Farmers Organization member. That organization also has generally been supported by Lucey in pushing for anti-corporate farm legislation.

The Natural Resources Board, which guides policy of the Department of Natural Resources, has been of increasing interest to farmers especially since development of proposed animal waste disposal codes and other environmental protection regulations.

Action Delayed

The Republican-controlled upper house postponed action on Democratic Gov. Patrick J. Lucey's appointment of Isabelle Cappellet of Odanah to the Health and Social Services Board after Health and Social Services Committee chairman James Devitt, R-Greenfield, objected to confirmation.

It also sent to committee the Border Stays Open for Young Imbibers

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Out-of-state youths under the age of 21 survived an attempt in the Wisconsin legislature Friday to keep some of them from crossing the border to take advantage of the state's 18-year-old drinking age.

The Senate defeated 16-15 an amendment to an otherwise noncontroversial bill making minor corrections in state statutes. The amendment would have outlawed drinking in Wisconsin by any border state youth whose home still required that he be at least 21 to drink beer and liquor.

"Literal Chaos"

The lawmakers earlier this year passed a bill lowering Wisconsin's age of majority to 18. Since the bill became law, some border towns have complained that large influxes of the youths have caught them without adequate police forces and facilities to cope with the situation.

The chief of the state's Bureau of Licenses and Regulations, Frank Beck, said the proposal would have affected Illinois and Minnesota, whose drinking ages are still 21.

Sen. Robert Knowles, R-New Richmond, said he introduced the amendment because the age of majority measure "is causing literal chaos" in the Hudson area which is less than a 30 minute drive from Minneapolis.

The Town Council in that border town of 5,000 passed an ordinance last week which requires all bars to build offstreet parking with full lighting and screening, and permits customers to be served only if they are seated.

Officials Look Again at White Sox Camp

Landfill Purchase

Okayed by Brillion

BROTHERTOWN — State and county social services officials made a second tour of the Chicago White Sox Boys' Camp here Thursday, but any further consideration of buying the facility will rest first with several county boards.

Area welfare officials have expressed little interest in using the camp for a multi-county juvenile rehabilitation center as has been proposed by Supv. Eugene Kloes of Appleton.

"We have to establish the need first," said Outagamie County Executive Alvin E. Woehler. The need, he related, has to be expressed by the counties that would be involved in the proposed venture.

Woehler took information sheets and camp layout maps which he said will be distributed to governmental leaders in Calumet, Fond du Lac, Outagamie and Winnebago counties prior to a meeting on the proposed purchase.

Possible Decision

A decision on whether to purchase the camp, how to purchase it and what it would be used for could be made at the meeting which Woehler said would be arranged as quickly as possible.

Several private interests have made offers on the 62-acre camp on the Lake Winnebago shoreline, according to Leo Breen, a White Sox official who also is affiliated with Artnell, a holding company whose interests include the Chicago baseball team. Artnell is asking $300,000 for the eight-year-old camp. At least one Appleton businessman is reported to have made Artnell an offer.

The camp never filled its intended purpose, Breen said. It was built when baseball players were signed as free agents, usually to the highest bidders.

The White Sox, in an attempt to woo promising young ball players, brought them to the camp during the summer.

Baseball's draft rule made the camp almost useless for that purpose, Breen continued. "We could put a big investment in a boy here then lose him in the draft," he related.

Break-Even Situation

The White Sox decided to continue the facility as a boy's camp "to retain the investment," Breen continued. "There's no money in it for us; it's a break-even proposition," he said.

There's also a geography problem, he explained. "We're in Chicago and the camp is here. It's too far away."

The facility now is used primarily as a summer camp for 9 to 16-year-old boys, most of them from Illinois and Indiana, who are given expert instructions in the fundamentals of a variety of sports and camping.

There are two, three-week camp sessions a year. Breen said a liquor license was obtained for the lodge which is kept open year around. Snow-mobilers frequent the lodge in the winter, he said.

The summer camp will accommodate 200 boys for each of the three week sessions. There are 24 counselors and six staff members who teach sports.

Facilities include a swimming pool, a trout pond, a nine-hole golf course, cabins, two wash houses, a roofed basketball court, baseball diamonds and a variety of other sports facilities, and the lodge, which includes kitchen, dining and bar provisions.

Still for Sale

Breen said there are no firm purchase offers for the camp which the White Sox have been trying to sell for four years.

Kloes said he became interested in the camp after seeing it advertised for sale in a Chicago newspaper last fall. He said he and another Appleton supervisor, Nick Karras, first met with White Sox officials last November.

Karras said Thursday his first reaction was that the camp would make an ideal park site. He said, however, he was not committing himself to any proposal until reaction is voiced by officials of the four counties.

Kloes had proposed buying the camp and using it to quarter and rehabilitate problem youths and juvenile delinquents from counties that would participate in the plan. He said he wouldn't push the issue unless several counties participated.

Not Interested

Outagamie County Welfare Director James E. Stamp told Karras and Kloes Thursday that his department would not be interested in participating in the multi-county youth camp venture as it was being proposed.

He said he did not see a need for such a facility, especially in light of recent state-level moves to close youth and adult correctional institutions. And Stamp said it's easy for his department to find sponsors for youths wishing to attend summer camps.

Park Complex

Winnebago County Welfare Director Norman Whitford made the first camp tour, on June 28, but no one from his Chairman of the Winnebago County Board's parks committee saw the facility for a multi-county youth camp, but she said the having possibilities as a public proposal deserved consideration.

No representative of Fond du Lac County has attended either the proposal to the director Florence Woelfel had camp tour.

BRILLION — The City Council this week formally approved the purchase of 34 acres of land for $20,000 from Nick Binsfield of a cul-de-sac at the end of lots 10 and 11 on Fawn Drive to the federal level.

The land will automatically become annexed to the city and satisfy the proof of ownership stipulation required by the Department of Natural Resources. The purchase agreement will be made conditional on securing approval of the site. Sources of possible funds for the acquisition were discussed.

Attorney William D. Engler informed the council that duplicate deposits had been made in connection with a jurisdictional offer made to Andrews & Hlavachek in 1968. The condemnation order resulted in the process of acquiring land for the present site of the Community Center building. The sum of $15,000 erroneously had been deposited twice with the clerk of courts in Chilton during the transactions. The $15,000 will be returned to the city and will be used to finance the landfill property.

The Dearview Hagan's preliminary plat submitted by the Hagan 25 per cent of his income for the rental purposes. On cases that fall into this category the balance is subsidized through the federal level.

Tax Dollars

The municipalities get approximately 10 per cent of normal tax dollars for services rendered from this type of housing.

No action was taken on whether the question determining control can be answered indefinitely.

The membership composition of the East-Central Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission was discussed. The county planner will be asked to address the next council session to provide additional information.

Glen Campbell, director of public works, reported on his meeting with Derrill Ott county commissioner, in regard to coordinating the work on Petty Street with the County Highway PP project. There will be some delay in beginning the work on PP. The city will proceed with taking care of all underground work involved before the county comes in late this month or the first week in August.

Spring Creek

The straightening of Spring Creek being done by James Ecker Construction Stockbridge, is under way.

Arrangements will be made for members of the council to visit the incinerator in Chilton. Figures on the exact cost per ton to other municipalities for use of the incinerator have not yet been determined.

A special meeting has been set for Wednesday to discuss services performed by American Pipe Service and any other business to come before the council.

The next regular session will be conducted at 6:30 p.m. June 24 to accommodate the annual meeting at the school scheduled for 8 p.m.

Motorcycle Races Replace Horses At Waupaca Fair

WEYAUWEGA — The roar of Badger Racing Association, an motorcycle engines will replace the clip-clop of horse hoofs successful races throughout the midwest. "And, if they didn't," he said, "they would go out of business, wouldn't they?"

Amid a bit of worried opposition from some city officials, final approval for the cycle races was finally granted late last week by the county parks committee. It will replace the traditional harness races.

Some officials most notably Weyauwega's Chief of Police Larry Schmies fought the prospect of motorcycle races out of fear that they could attract cycle gangs from Milwaukee or Chicago, which could lead to disruptions.

"Our concern was that undesirable would show up and that could lead to the kind of trouble other communities have had with motorcycle gangs," he said.

Officers on Duty

Schmies said the city's two officers will be on duty during the event, along with a reserve force of county police in case any problems arise.

Gordon Bratz, Weyauwega a spokesman for the county Fair Association, said the change from the horse races was made simply because they were not making enough money at recent fairs.

"There is no sense in running it the fair in an unbusinesslike manner," he said. "Young people are prime customers, and I think they prefer the blood and guts of motorcycle racing to horse racing."

Racing Association

Bratz explained that the races are being conducted by the

New London Fly-In Planned

NEW LONDON — The Chamber of Commerce and the New London Aviation Club will again sponsor a fly-in this summer.

The chamber's board of directors recently appointed a committee of Ken Krause, Allen Nyse and George Kubiszek to meet with the aviators and set up the program. No definite date has been set, but the committee is planning a September weekend.

In other business, the board voted to appropriate $500 for additional equipment for the public address and speaker system.

New city directories now are available, and are being delivered to local businesses and residents. It was announced that Wonderful Wisconsin Week will be Sept. 17-23.

The board also decided to send a copy of a letter, concerning the dehyphenization of the Oshkosh-Appleton air market, to all industries and the press.

The chamber also learned that 25,000 copies of the Waupaca County Story were printed, and 9,000 of those were given away at the Milwaukee Sports Show. Copies are still available at the local chamber office.

Waupaca Youth UWS Student of Water Problems

WAUPACA — A Waupaca student John Lasswell, 604 Lake St., is learning how to assess environmental problems in the waters of the county at a special Student Science Training Program presented by the University of Wisconsin-Superior.

The class is designed for high-ability students and discusses research of the ecology of fresh water areas, according to a UWS statement.

Applicants are selected from areas depending on water bodies for home industrial and recreational uses. The training, according to the university, is designed to aid students in community participation in water management problems.

Applicant Decided She Didn't Want This Modeling Job

The accompanying article was written by a university coed who responded to a newspaper ad which appealed for women models.

The ad in the paper said "wanted — women over 18 for figure art modeling. High wages. Call after 5 p.m." Fair enough, said one girl. She called, went to the place for an interview and came away madder than a hatter.

Seems the figure art wasn't "just like college art classes" as the woman on the phone had said, but instead was modeling for what the girl termed "dirty old men perverts."

She called me so I could do something about the matter. I got permission from the Post-Crescent, called, gave a false name and made an appointment.

It seems needless to point out that I was more than a bit scared about the whole thing. I drove to the Figure Art Salon on Wisconsin Avenue in Appleton.

But then the whole bubble of intrigue burst.

The salon was in a building bordered by a Blue Star blockparents home for frightened children and a malt shop. What skulduggery could possibly go on in such an innocent location?

I went inside and a tall young man with a nervous manner and long hair had me, although at that point it fill out an application and wait for the Manager — Dan. The application asked for my name, address, phone, Social Security number, body measurements and how I would get to work.

Again I gave false information. While I was waiting for Dan, I heard a man tell a girl to "put your arm up here," and "your face can tilt this way." He was instructing her for poses she would assume for customers.

Dan came out a short time later and the girl wearing hot pants walked to the back of the building. Dan came up to meet me.

He was very quiet and shy and like a younger brother when he explained the job.

He said, as had the woman interviewer who turned out to be his wife, that the modeling was like college classes except that you model for only one person at a time.

Did I mind posing in the nude, he asked, and I replied, "No," a truthful answer — I am a college art class.

I asked what sort of thing happened during the session. He replied, "You go in the back a few snaps and it's over."

"Stems," I inquired. Yes, said Dan, the studio uses cameras.

He explained that the camera is much faster than the usual method of painting or sketching and besides you make more money in less time.

Nervous Customer

He explained that the male customer — usually a middle-aged businessman — was more nervous than the female model. A male customer made a noise like a machine gun when he saw the camera.

I asked about how the model was developed and he said that the cameras the studio rents out are Polaroids. The pictures are stamped with the studio name to prevent unlawful reproduction.

That is one of the rules of the studio. Dan explained that the studio has to give permission for reproduction of all photographs.

Other rules prohibit any physical contact between the model and photographer, no lewd or lascivious conduct or talk on the part of the photographer, no smoking and photographers who bring their own equipment do so at their own risk.

I asked one model if she had ever had any trouble with patrons and she said no. Dan added that if any model ever had trouble it would be pretty easy to find out about are also because the individual studios have no ceilings on them so every sound can be heard at the front desk.

There are three studios in the room and a large back room which can be used for movie taking.

Dan explained that for a movie the model walks into the room slowly takes off her clothes and "does what comes natural." My informant told me that one of the things a model can do according to Dan is come near him.

Dan later showed me the poses that the models were allowed to do. All of them were taken from Playboy picture spreads of Bunnies and other models. He stressed that this isn't pornography. It's art.

Near the end of the interview Dan could sense my skepticism and fear of the job and said that I was just like all the other girls who came in for jobs. He said that I should just try modeling and said that we could have a run-through then with him at the camera for experience.

I declined and said I'd have to think about it.

He said fine. There was no trouble with a nice soft sell from what appeared to be a nice guy out to make some money where the go-go bars leave off.

Studio Owner Says He's 'Within the Law'

Appleton police are investigating a new photography studio where amateur photographers can privately take pictures of one or more nude female models. The owner contends that he is within the law.

There are no plans at present to file charges against the studio, located on Wisconsin Avenue near Division Street, but the Brown County district attorney apparently is seeking to find a state statute that may be used to prosecute a similar studio in Green Bay.

Both studios are owned by Dan Scorgie of Kaukauna. He said today that he had hired an Appleton attorney before going into business. He drew up guidelines that he believed the studio could operate under legally, the owner said.

After a customer pays his fee for a specified amount of modeling time, he and one or more models are brought into a room where he directs the model to pose while he takes photos. The models are instructed not to assume pornographic poses," Scorgie said.

Opened July 1

The Green Bay and Appleton studios were opened July 1. Appleton police have been investigating since they learned of the establishment.

"We have a continuing investigation going," said Det. Sgt. Ronald Soper of the Appleton Police Department. "If we find that in any way violates city or state laws, we will present the evidence to the city attorney or district attorney. There are no plans at present to file charges."

Outagamie County District Attorney James Long said no complaints had been filed at his office and that he was not aware such a business was operating in Appleton.

The studio owner's legal counsel said he had conferred with R. Thomas Cane, assistant district attorney, on state statutes and City Atty. David Green and his assistant, Richard Hamilton, on city ordinances. He said the three helped him in setting up the guidelines which the owner is operating under.

The legal counsel said, "Nudity is not pornography. It's no different than the painters down at Lawrence University, photography is an art form."

He contended many colleges in the Valley, including the University of Wisconsin-Oshkosh were permitting nude models to pose for art purposes. So why can't we use them?" he said. They can make more money at any place.

Recent Visit

The owner outlined his studio operation to a Post-Crescent reporter-photographer who recently visited the studio.

The studio was started according to its manager, to provide photographers with nude models at what he feels are reasonable rates. To date, Scorgie is frustrated because Studio Arts has not been attracting "serious" photographers.

In fact, Appleton business has been poor. A Green Bay version of the studio, he said, has done considerably better, but Appleton must be a dead city.

The reporter's first visit uncovered little except rates and rules because the owner wasn't there. An assistant on duty at the time was unfamiliar with some aspects of the operation. There wasn't even a girl available had the newsman wanted to take pictures that afternoon.

Rent a Camera

The assistant displayed a rates list, which included $8 for 15 minutes and $13 for 30 minutes. That is for photographers who bring their own cameras. Those who wish to rent a Polaroid camera from the studio pay $12.50 for 15 minutes and get eight pictures of snapshot size for their investment.

There reportedly are 10 girls working for the operation. However, at none of the three times the reporter-photographer was at the studio was there ever more than one girl present.

During the final visit, the first two were taken up with making and re-checking photographs. Apparently, the reporter showed up with 35mm camera in hand only to have to wait for another customer who wanted 15 minutes with the model and a rented Polaroid.

Three of his pictures didn't turn out.

The model, an Appleton regular, some reportedly work at both Green Bay and Appleton studios, apparently had modeled for about a week and had never worked before with 35mm equipment.
